Personality Development Workshop Report 2018-2019

The MA I students conducted workshops for FYBA students on 4 topics namely Time Management, Anger Management, Conflict Management and Stress management. These four topics were part of the Foundation Course Syllabus for FYBA. The objective was to make the students understand the concepts and apply them in their own lives. The sessions were conducted on 25th January 2019, 1st February 2019, 8th Feb 2019 and 15th Feb 2019. Each session was 1.5 to 2 hrs in length.

A total of 12 groups were made. The MA 1 students made the session interactive and activity based. The sessions were a good stress buster for the students and many reported they learnt and enjoyed a lot through the sessions. The MA 1 students also found it to be a good learning experience and they got a chance to mentor their juniors.

PERSONALITY DEVELOPMENT WORKSHOP REPORT- GROUP 5

11th January, 2019 - Rapport Building

- Introduction of names of both volunteers and students.
- Human chain - to explore different strategies to reach a solution to a problem as well as to increase cohesiveness.
- Students had to write down either a first impression or a positive comment for their fellow classmates - to enhance positivity among students.
- Headphone whisper activity - a rapport building activity which also enhances communication.
- Dumb charades - a time-filler fun activity to induce team-building.

25th January, 2019 - Time management

- Time based activity - Minute to win it games.
1. Pyramid building - In this task they had to make a pyramid using mini paper cups.
 2. Rice and button - In this task, the students were told to search for white buttons that were mixed in a bowl full of rice within a minute.
 3. Needle and thread - In this task each person was given needle and thread and the task was to treadle the needle within a minute.
 - Chinese whispers - The students were divided into 2 groups and then the first person was given a sentence and she had to pass it on to other members of the group.
 - Pictionary - Each person was given a word and they had to draw it on a piece of paper and the other members had to guess the word within a minute.

There were 5 rounds where each member was given only 1 minute to complete each of the above activities.

The main purpose of the time based activities was to make the students realize the importance of time, how to manage their time, also to come up with new strategies and plans to get things done quickly.

- Students were asked to start write in terms of per hour, how did they spent their time yesterday and then made to reflect on the following questions. What activities did you spend most time on? What were the time wasters? What activities do you'll want to make time for?
- Now using these points, students were directed to make a schedule for the next day i.e. the 26th of January, using the following steps-
- Step 1 - a major to do list of tasks to do (using SMART goals)
- Step 2 - prioritizing, which tasks are urgent and which are not.
- Step 3 - scheduling, according to time (but before scheduling blocking - do related tasks together, making sure to have buffer time)

- Step 4 - try to follow the schedule as much as you can & letting us know by Friday if it worked.

At the end of the day the students were briefed about time management importance and strategies.

1st February, 2019 - Anger Management

- Anger trigger sheet - To understand the anger triggers and levels in reaction to different situations faced in life.
- The students were asked to write the thing that makes one most angry on a sheet and to crush it, tear it or throw it. This was done to teach the individual subtle ways of venting out and to make them feel slightly cathartic.
- Bollywood dialogues- 'When I get angry., I....'- This was an individual activity where they had to complete the sentence related to anger with a funny bollywood dialogue. This was done to emphasize how to attach humor to provoking situations, and calm oneself and to take rational look at the situation.
- Charades with anger reducing words - to help individuals to cope with anger by using different anger management techniques like for example counting to 10.
- Remote control- students are asked to move around and then giving various commands like - Pause, Rewind & Fast forward. They were then briefed that, when you get angry try to PAUSE and think and not react fast, REWIND and introspect and not FAST FORWARD and act hastily.
- Badminton- Hitting the shuttle cock really hard thinking about the situation/person that ignites anger within them and can give them to channel the angry emotions in a better way.

8th February, 2019 - Conflict management

- The students were divided into 2 groups and asked to give a group name and prepare a theme song – as group formation and inducing team cohesiveness.
- Paper Race competition between the two groups - to measure the synchrony within the groups and how accurately they work together to resolve inter-group conflicts.
- Debate between 2 members on various topics - 1 minute was given to each team to mention their views on the topic and 1 minute for the rebuttal round – to induce group conflict.
- Pushy pairs - one person from each group comes forward and the pair take the grip from their arms and tries to push each other – to make them realize how to resist 'push' during conflict.

- Pair from opposing groups - one person is blindfolded and has to walk through a pathway made out of cups without touching them while their partner directs them – to resolve previous conflict between the pair and to increase communication.
- Situations - find a way out of it. It was a paired task. Each person is given a situation that is a conflict and the opposite person has to come up with a solution and has to enact it and has to be guessed by the person going through the conflict situation. This was done to make the students aware of different ways to resolve a strategy.

15th February, 2019 - Stress management and feedback session

- A guided imagery meditation - students were asked to sit in the circle, close their eyes, relax and image a beach scene, wherein they are enjoying the cold breeze, there is no stress.
- Laughing exercise- students were asked to rub their hands and slowly open their eyes, and stand up in a circle, and raise their hands and laugh, to begin with a fresh and happy morning.
- Stressor race- Students were asked to stand in a horizontal line. A number of stressors were read out one by one - e.g. failing in exam, wallet is stolen, breakup, etc. So if they had experienced that stressor, the students had to walk a step ahead. This was done to show the students that different people have different stressors
- Situations - the students were divided into 2 groups. One member from each group would be given a stressor to act, and a member from the other group had to guess the stressor and suggest a solution to deal with that particular stressor – to learn different ways of coping and dealing with stressors.
- Balloon- every student was had to write all their major stressors on a chit and put it in the balloon. After the balloon was inflated, and later all the students busted the balloons together – to encourage them to fight their stressor
- Feedback session- Each student and trainer individually provided feedback about all the sessions and their learning and the kind of experience.

(Puppeteer, MMC)

VENUE: Seminar Hall 4.2

TIME: 9.00 AM TO 5.00 PM

OBJECTIVES: To learn the art of puppet making

To equip in the skill of storytelling

METHODOLOGY: Demonstration and group work

OVERVIEW: Shri Katta Babu sir is a renowned puppetarian. He has been in this field for more than 40 years. It was a privilege to learn the art of puppet making from him. The workshop was based on creating different types of puppets from recyclable and reusable materials. The session began by dividing the students into different groups to teach each group one type of puppet. Puppets were created using different waste products such as old newspapers, old xerox sheets, soft drink cans, plastic bottles, cardboard sheets, small plastic balls, old socks, small coconut shells, broomsticks, glue, paint colours, black marker, old cloth pieces and some decorative articles. At the end each student had at least one of the following puppets- bottle puppet, stick puppet, can puppet, ball puppet, cardboard puppet, socks puppet or coconut shell puppet. Sir demonstrated different forms of voice modulations for different characters, appropriate usage of tone, the pitch, and how to give background voice effects. He also shared tips on how to set up a quick theatre to perform a puppet show, things to keep in mind during the performance, the beginning and end of the show and how to formulate the storyline of the show. Each group of students had to perform a show at the end of the session in the allotted time limit.

OUTCOME: Creation of puppets and being able to put up a puppet show and perform using the same was given much importance during the sessions. Students learnt both the art of creating the puppets as well as using them in various forms as teaching learning aids for young children. Puppets have been used since always as a subset of pretend play for young children, where the children are drawn towards the puppet naturally.

ANY OTHER REMARKS: It is rightly said, a teacher can either create love & passion for a concept or develop hatred towards the same. Katta babu sir was so humble and down to earth, the passion he holds for puppets, he tried to pass the same among his students.

TARGET GROUP: SYBA & TYBA CD

NAME OF FACULTY: Dr. Swati Partani

NO OF STUDENTS: 11

SPEAKER/RESOURCE PERSON (WITH DESIGNATION): Ms. Nidhi Dattani (Asst. Prof. Dept. of Family Resource Development, SPN Doshi College)

VENUE: CLASSROOM NO. 4.1 & 4.8

TIME: 12.00 PM TO 2.00 PM & 12.30 PM TO 3.30 PM

OBJECTIVES: To understand, construct and set up a 3d model of preschool

METHODOLOGY: Hands on experience

OVERVIEW: The session commenced with a discussion on what all we see around in a preschool. Starting from the most common things leading to the least common ones which go unnoticed but are very important. The session provided an overview of the preschool organization and its administration. After the theoretical explanations then began the hands-on experience on ergonomics applied and required for the young preschool children. The facilitator divided the students into groups, eight students in each group. Then, she asked to create a floor plan for a preschool. She asked the students to build a 3d preschool project using waste materials. Minute detailing was kept in mind such as entry of children, exit, direction of rest rooms, play area, furniture for young children, toys, mats, colourful walls and naming each and every area in print and readable letters. She also suggested creating the space as per different learning stations or according to the philosophy followed by the school. Intricacy, especially inside the classroom, was given more importance. Many groups named their preschool model, they kept in mind minute details such as number of classrooms, structure of the classroom, outdoor play area with child friendly equipment and the entire structure of the preschool. Few models were exhibited in the BNCDC annual exhibition-rainbowz, where the students' received compliments for their work.

OUTCOME: Hands on experience in the workshop equipped students with better understanding about the topic. Creating a 3D model and presenting it at the exhibition-built confidence among students. Giving a personal touch by naming the preschool validated that the students understood the topic well.

ANY OTHER REMARKS: Practical along with theory is the best way to retain the knowledge and understanding of any concept among individuals.

OBJECTIVES: To provide knowledge of tools like correlation and chi-square test, t-test and ANOVA on SPSS

METHODOLOGY: In the first session conducted on 13th September 2019 (Friday) from 10 am to 12 pm, the trainer explained to the students the basic statistical tools like measures of central tendency and how they can be found for any variable using MS- Excel.

The trainer explained in detail about the meaning of variable and the concept of dependent and independent variables. The trainer engaged in a question answer session where he asked students about their topics of dissertations and explained to them what they can take as dependent and independent variables in their dissertation.

Tools like correlation and regression were explained and how they can be applied to quantitative variables.

Trainer explained to the students the meaning of the hypothesis and the concept of null and alternate hypothesis.

A visual simulation was shown to the students by the trainer about how hypothesis can be taken for qualitative variables and how chi-square test can be used.

In the second session conducted on 14th September 2019 (Saturday) from 10 am to 12 pm, the trainer explained how the software SPSS can be installed on the computer. Then it was explained how variables can be defined on SPSS by going to variable view and then how data can be entered one by one in the data view. The types of scales i.e. nominal, ordinal, interval and ratio were also explained so that variables can be categorized under these types.

In the third session conducted on 28th September 2019 (Saturday) from 10 am to 12 pm, the trainer taught how different descriptive statistics can be found on SPSS for the variables.

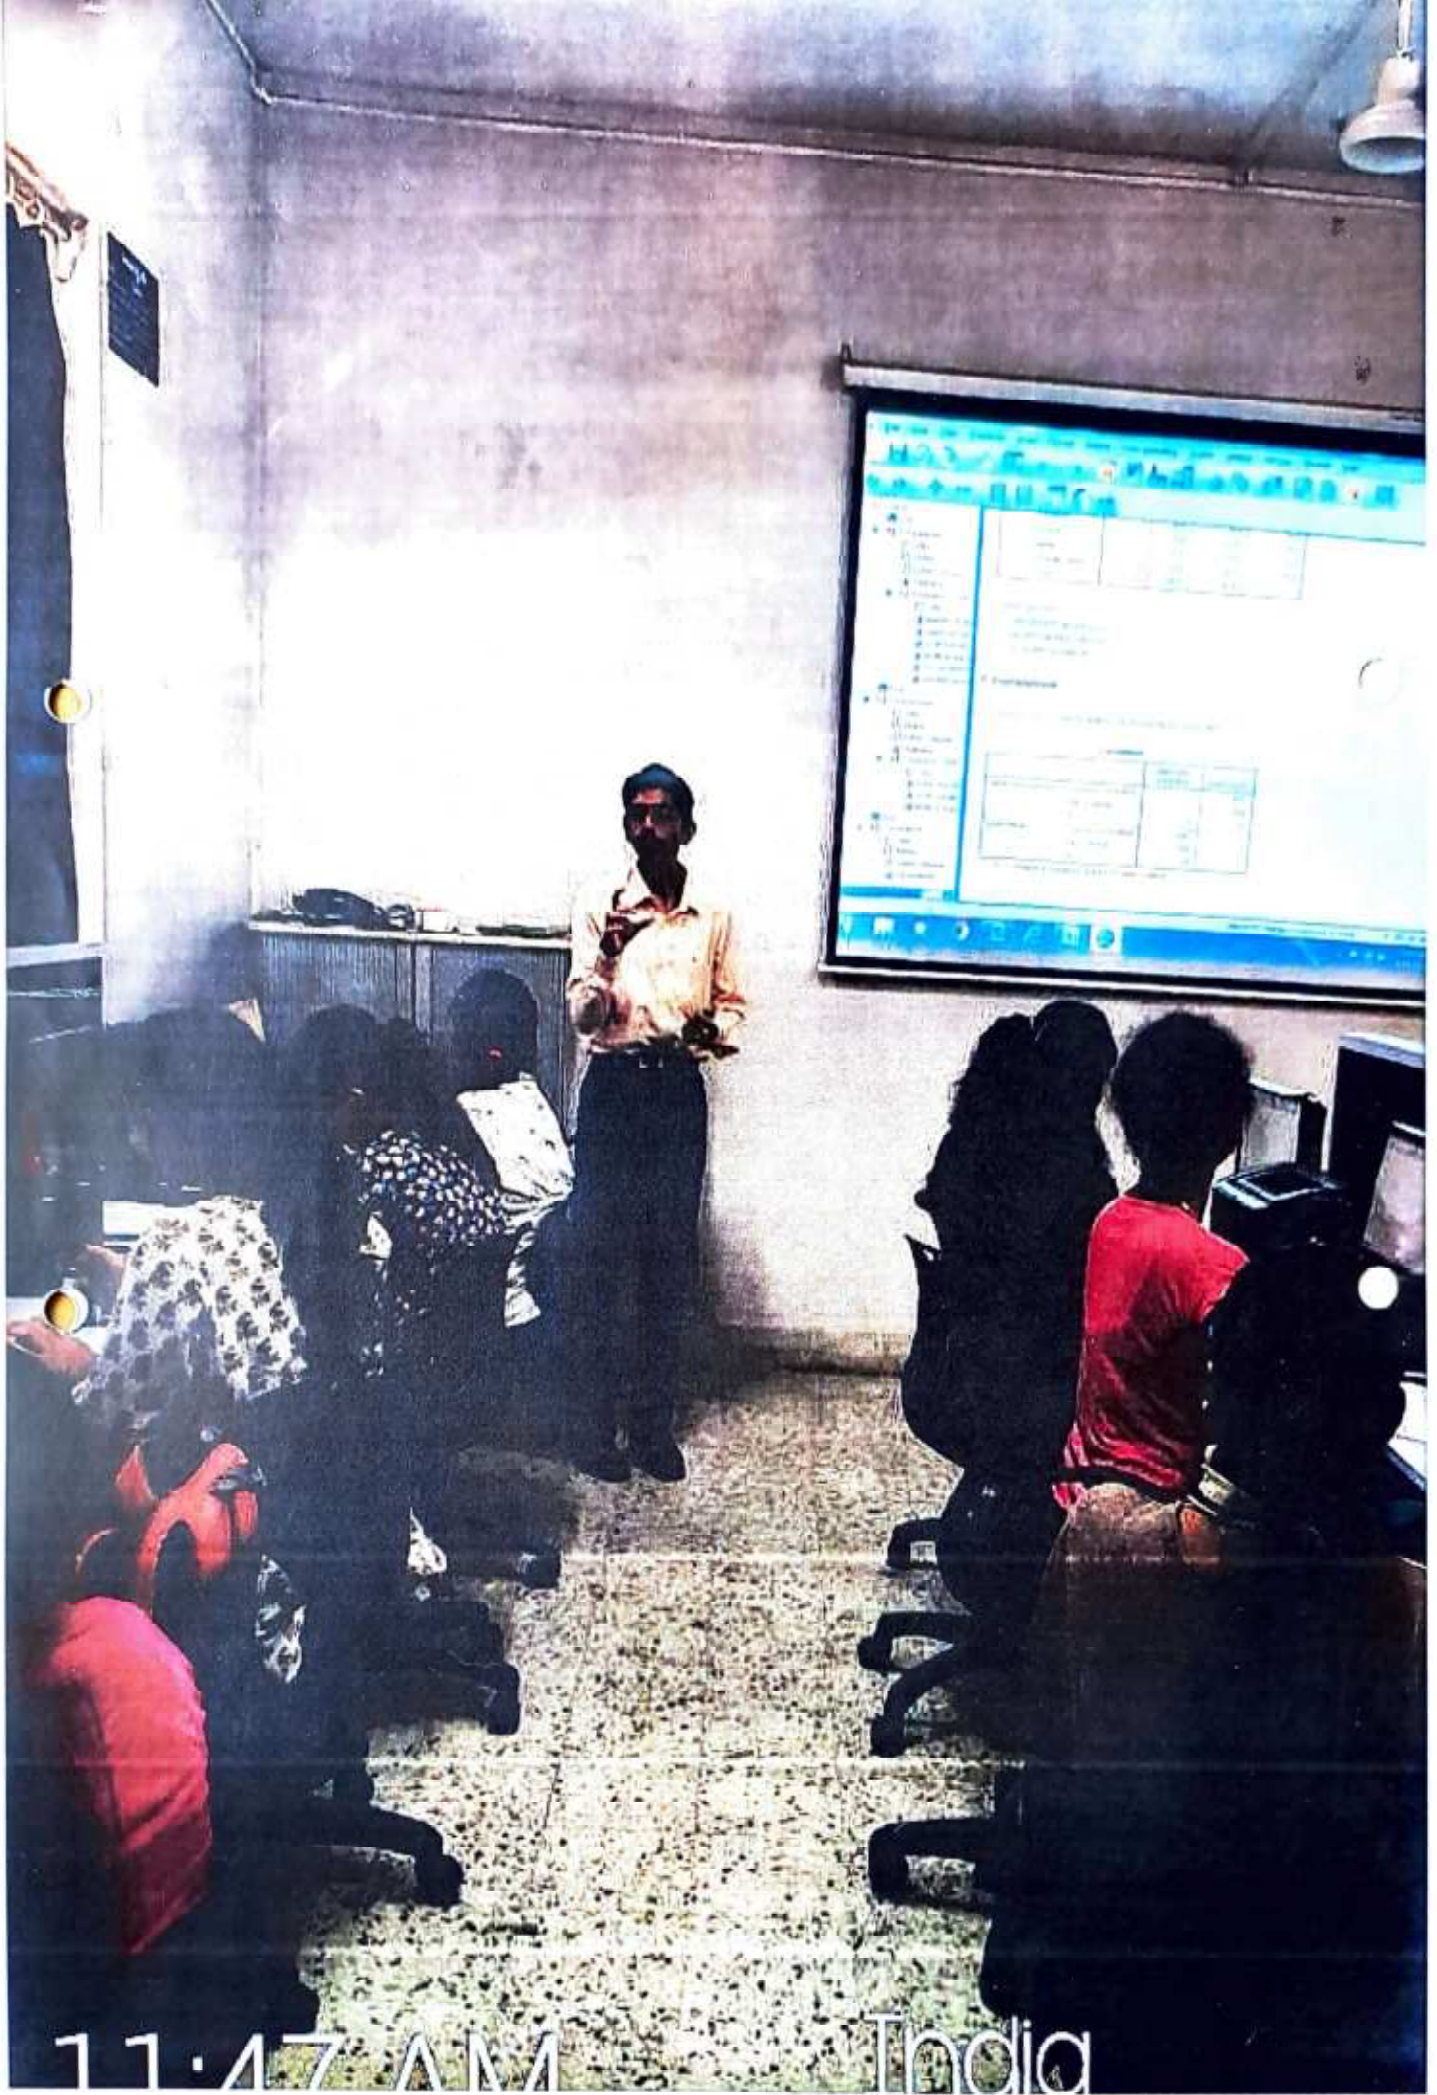

The use of tools like correlation, regression and chi-square test was taken. Also, the interpretation of the tables was explained so that hypotheses can be tested. Also the use of t - test and ANOVA was taken on SPSS. This will really help the students to analyze the data collected in their dissertations.

The use of SPSS will first enable the students to enter the data collected from their questionnaires into the software. Then they can make appropriate hypotheses and use different tests of significance to test these hypotheses.

OVERVIEW: The overall session was very informative from the students point of view they received information and experience of data interpretation and analysis of data by using SPSS.

OUTCOME: The use of SPSS helped the student to gain experience to data collection and data analysis in their dissertations.

OBJECTIVES:

- To enhance the understanding about pedagogies.
- To learn how to observe the learning process and development of children.
- To understand the methods of teaching and learning.

OVERVIEW:

Five days of training sessions were conducted in the 30 hours skill development program; which was divided into 3 hours per session followed by 3 hours of the daily assessment conducted by Dr Reeta Sonawat.

The first session began at 2.30 pm sharp, with Dr Reeta Sonawat being heartily welcomed by Dr Rajshri Trivedi and Dr Swati Partani. The introductory speech was given by Ms Kinjal Sharma and Ms Fatema Tinwala. Dr Reeta Sonawat introduced the pedagogy of Friedrich Froebel. Friedrich Froebel used to think about children's capabilities of thinking and understanding. Dr Reeta Sonawat, through a presentation, pointed out pictures of his kindergarten and museum followed by slides of his works and inventions. Participants came up with queries that were resolved by Dr Reeta Sonawat itself. The vote of thanks was given by Ms Gargee Kulkarni. The session came to an end at 5:30 pm with MCQ and feedback forms.

The Second-day session began at 2:30 sharp. Dr Reeta Sonawat started with the pedagogy of Maria Montessori. She was an Italian physician, educator, and innovator, acclaimed for her educational method that builds on the way children learn naturally. For her sensory training was the most important feature. She used the equipment to build up children's skills in different domains. The presentation shared by Dr Reeta Sonawat included slides that displayed Dr. Montessori's equipment. The queries came up by participants and were answered by Dr Reeta Sonawat. The session came to an end at 5:30 with a vote of thanks from Ms Sharvi Agarkar; also with the addition of daily MCQ and feedback form.

The third-day session began at 2:30 pm.

The Topic for the third day was Reggio Emilia, which was named after the city in Northern Italy. Reggio Emilia is an educational philosophy that prioritizes play-based, hands-on learning over a prescribed curriculum. A presentation by Dr. Sonawat thoroughly explained the pedagogue and greatly interested the learners present. The session came to an end with the resolving questions of participants by Dr Reeta Sonawat. Feedbacks and mcq forms were submitted by participants at 5:30 pm. Also the vote of thanks given by a student Ms Fatema Tinwala.

The Fourth day of the session began at 2:30 pm. The pedagogue of the 4th day was Rudolf Steiner. Rudolf Steiner aims that children are self-directed to free play with the environment created around them. The skills developed through his perspective and learning are:- cognitive, social, emotional, and physical. The session came to an end with interesting questions and experiences by participants. Ms Sonali Gundarapu, a student gave the vote of thanks to Dr Reeta Sonawat at 5:30 pm.

The feedback and MCQ form was provided on the pedagogy.

On the last day, the session began at 2:30 pm sharp. Dr Swati Partani welcomed and thanked Dr Reeta Sonawat for sharing her knowledge with us. In this session, two pedagogies were explained. The first pedagogue was Gijubhai Badheka and the other was Mahatma Gandhi. As the presentation gave much information about his works. Then the presentation focused on the major works of Mahatma Gandhi. Truth, the right way of living, nonviolence, respect for elders, freedom and striving for it, are some of Mahatma Gandhi's most important qualities. The session came to an end with solving queries and as it was the last day the learners and Dr Reeta Sonawat shared a few of their experiences and learnings. Then for conducting valedictory ceremony Dr Rajshree Trivedi poured her generous words to Dr Reeta Sonawat followed by Dr Swati Partani and other Participants who gave their humble feedback. Then a vote of thanks was given by a student Ms Sarah Lakdawala, also a feedback and MCQ form was provided at 5:30 pm. The pictures were also clicked by students to remember these golden days. The session was concluded with the graceful remarks of Dr Reeta Sonawat.

A special note about this successful intensive training program is that out of the 69 participants, 60 were students - both FYBA and SYBA - from Maniben Nanavati Women's College, and the course reached an international scale as 9 senior preschool teachers and faculty from Malaysia were also enthusiastic learners

LEARNING OUTCOME:

The main motive/goal of all these five days sessions was to make us learn and understand the pedagogies.

The first pedagogue was Friedrich Froebel who thought about children's capabilities and their thinking. The activities we learned through kindergarten included singing, dancing, gardening, and self-directed play with the Froebel's Gifts. He made ten gifts through which children learned and developed skills. He also created Occupations, where the product was often irreversible, and included skills that were to be learned by the child.

On the second day, we learned about Maria Montessori. She believed that one's intellect and knowledge of the world have their beginnings in the senses. Her principles are independent observation, following the child, correcting the child and having an absorbent mind. Even the benefits of the Montessori school system, the concept of Montessori and the Philosophy of multi-age groups got highlighted. Manners, etiquette and morals were the core of her curriculum. The Montessori school system is thriving and will continue to do so.

Reggio Emilia was our third-day topic as Dr Reeta Sonawat presented the PPT, participants learned how the Reggio Emilia approach was founded by Loris Malaguzzi based on the concept of "the child has a hundred languages".

Even the thought inculcated in the participants that the teachers are "teacher-researchers", a resource and guide as they lend expertise to children. The teacher plays a critical role by being the child's partner and recognizing many learning possibilities.

The fourth-day pedagogy highlighted was Rudolf Steiner. According to his philosophy, the human being is a threefold being of spirit, soul, and body whose capacities unfold in three developmental stages: early childhood, middle childhood and adolescence. Children in his school find their learning and are initiated in creative play and become innovative and independently motivated. They developed positive social skills and empathy towards each other. He named his invented toys Waldorf toys which are open-ended, simple, inspired by nature and design to promote learning to the imagination.

The fifth pedagogue was about an educator who developed Montessori methods in India named Gijubhai Badheka. He believed that the most essential quality that children require to cultivate is the interest in learning. Gijubhai also realised that children must develop a sense of love for learning and he believed that it should be a natural process. Gijubhai's contributions include the evolution of a system of child education suitable to the Indian environment Training of teachers and creation of a body of literature for children.

The last pedagogy was about our Indian Pride Mahatma Gandhi. He always taught people to forgive those who commit wrong and speak harshly. Young Indians can learn how to start forgiving people who do wrong and misbehave with you. He helped the children in all-round development. Training of heart and building of character received his first attention. They were helped to build their physique through manual work. Learning by doing and co-operation were the means of gaining experiences for the children of age range from 6 to 16. Gandhi believed in teachers having freedom in curriculum matters. Mahatma Gandhi's teaching pedagogy was a needs-based teaching technique which added vocational training, arts and crafts to the curriculum. He did so as he wanted to make the rural population of India more financially independent. Moral, ethical development including instilling self-expression and self-discipline through purposeful activities through ages 4 to 7 like cleaning the environment, sewing and stitching were also conducted.

NAME OF THE ACTIVITY: WORKSHOP ON PHONICS : SOUNDS OF ALPHABETS

DD/MM/YY: 9th April, 2022

TARGET GROUPS : Students of MNWC'S SYBA and BNCDC's PG Diploma

NAME OF FACULTY: Dr. Swati Partani, Ms. Jaya Rajdev

NO OF STUDENTS: 28 CD & BNCDC students

SPEAKER/RESOURCE PERSON (WITH DESIGNATION): Mrs. Namrata Babvani, Visiting Lecturer at Maniben Nanavati Women's College and National Board Member at Aga Khan National Education Board

VENUE: Google Meet (meet.google.com/oqe-icid-qfx)

TIME: 2.00 PM to 6.00 PM

OBJECTIVES:

1. To introduce the concept of phonics, and the importance of sound in teaching young children.
2. To enable thinking about the different sounds used in a creative manner to teach children.
3. To explain the importance of phonics in speech and language development.
4. To introduce the 42 different sounds of phonics.
5. To create an understanding of the steps and activities involved in phonics lessons for preschool children.
6. To introduce the Jolly Phonics system of phonics learning.

METHODOLOGY: Two methods followed in this activity were Experiential and Participative. The students were required not only to listen to the experienced resource person but also had to follow along to the actions and sounds, as well as had to coordinate in creating activities for the same.

OVERVIEW:

The workshop began with an introduction to phonics and the many systems to teach it by Mrs. Namrata Babvani. Being trained thrice in Jolly Phonics, this internationally-renowned system formed the foundation for the phonics lesson system she taught. The importance of phonics in speech and language development, forming the foundation for readiness was explained.

The 42 sounds utilised in Jolly Phonics, as per their groups, were introduced. The sound and action for each sound was demonstrated and the students were requested to follow along. The example words that could be presented to the children were also explained. The word blends, magical "c" and other notable changes in word sounds were also presented. A song was demonstrated to show the correct phonetic pronunciation of two vowels.

Then numerous activities and teaching aids including word formation flashcards, sandpaper flashcards, picture talk, stories and songs utilised in phonics lessons were explained. Mrs. Babvani also demonstrated some of the samples of teaching aids she had to the students.

The steps in a lesson were explained and then the students present were divided into groups and provided topics to create a few activities for. The topics were the different stages of teaching phonics to a child, for instance, introduction of a sound, revision of a group of sounds etc. Each group then presented their activities to Mrs. Babvani.

To conclude the program the Jolly Phonics mobile application was demonstrated, as well as a summary was given. Post the workshop, material was provided for further revision as well as an assignment for a phonics lesson plan was prescribed.

OUTCOME:

The students were able to understand the importance of phonics in developing appropriate speech patterns and vocabulary for the child. The role that phonics plays in providing the foundation for Reading Readiness and Writing Readiness was well understood. The 42 sounds have provided a better sense of enunciation and have also provided insight into how children can be taught essential components of speech with the help of action. Creativity of the students was engaged as they learned the many different ways in which phonics are taught, the steps that are usually utilised in teaching a phonics' sound and the activities that can be created for the same. The chance provided to students for application and engagement with the resource person provided a deeper hands-on understanding about phonics. The importance of the use of songs, stories, sound and actions in teaching children concepts that can form the crux of their future readiness for formal schooling was also understood. The students were able to learn how phonics learning can be further improved with the feedback from Mrs. Namrata Babvani on their activities as well as the material provided by the resource person post-workshop further cemented that understanding.

YEAR: 2022-23

NAME OF THE ACTIVITY: Paramparik visit

DD/MM/YY: 20-08-2022 TARGET GROUP: B.Design Fashion design

NAME OF FACULTY: Ms. Maya Chauhan

NO OF STUDENTS: 22

SPEAKER/RESOURCE PERSON (WITH DESIGNATION): Visit to art work stall

VENUE: South Mumbai TIME: 9:00- 2:00

OBJECTIVES: Students get knowledge about the hand made Product sourcing and determine the art work of the all over India. How to created the stall for hand made art work products. How to distinguish the need for an agent vs. the need for a factory.How to categorize your products based on which sourcing methods will be most effective.

METHODOLOGY: The activity provides the opportunity to discover each own creative styles which makes us distinct and unique among the rest, through different methods and exercises. We were made to go on a trip, in order to broaden the research. We learned that there are several stages we have to work through when creating your products; from design through sampling & ultimately production.

OVERVIEW: We met vendors from different states publishing new fabrics and prints which have come out recently in the market. We broke down the whole process step-by-step: identify good products, connect with good suppliers, negotiate the prices. On top of that, we shared some insider product sourcing tips to minimize the chance of making beginners' errors. While we got to witness various styles of stationery items , there was a another aile of earrings which had every top notch patterns that you could wear for any occasion be it casual, formal, semi-formal or ethnic.

OUTCOME: While fashion is much of a topic to talk in greater depth with stories of different cultures and their inspiration behind the art. We realised the importance of conducting in-depth research. For example comparing the pros and cons of working directly with wholesalers to manufacturers and figuring out which method is better to gain a better control over inventory. It was also worth noticing how fast culture was influencing millennials and rapid change in styles. All you could see was how girls including boys were engrossed in the style of textiles, beads ,pearls and different stationary items. Some were out there looking for south Indian style patterns while some were out there looking for ethnic styles. I found my style of preference by going for some simple looks with little preference for abstract design.

ANY OTHER REMARKS: Confidence and change in regularity must needed.

ACTIVITY REPORT

YEAR: 2022-2023

NAME OF ACTIVITY : YOGA AND STRESS MANAGEMENT.

DD/MM/YY: Aug 2022 to March 2023

TARGET GROUP: ALL FIRST YEARS FROM ALL STREAM.

NAME OF FACULTY: Dr. Ravindra Katayan, Ms. Vaishnavi Arya Ms. Jennifer Almeida, Pramod Pandey.

NO OF STUDENTS: All FY

VENUE: MNWC, Room no 4.2

TIME:7.30 a.m to 8.30 a.m

OBJECTIVES: The purpose of conducting yoga and stress management was to increase focus, concentration and mainly for better mental and physical health of the students.

METHODOLOGY: Participatory.

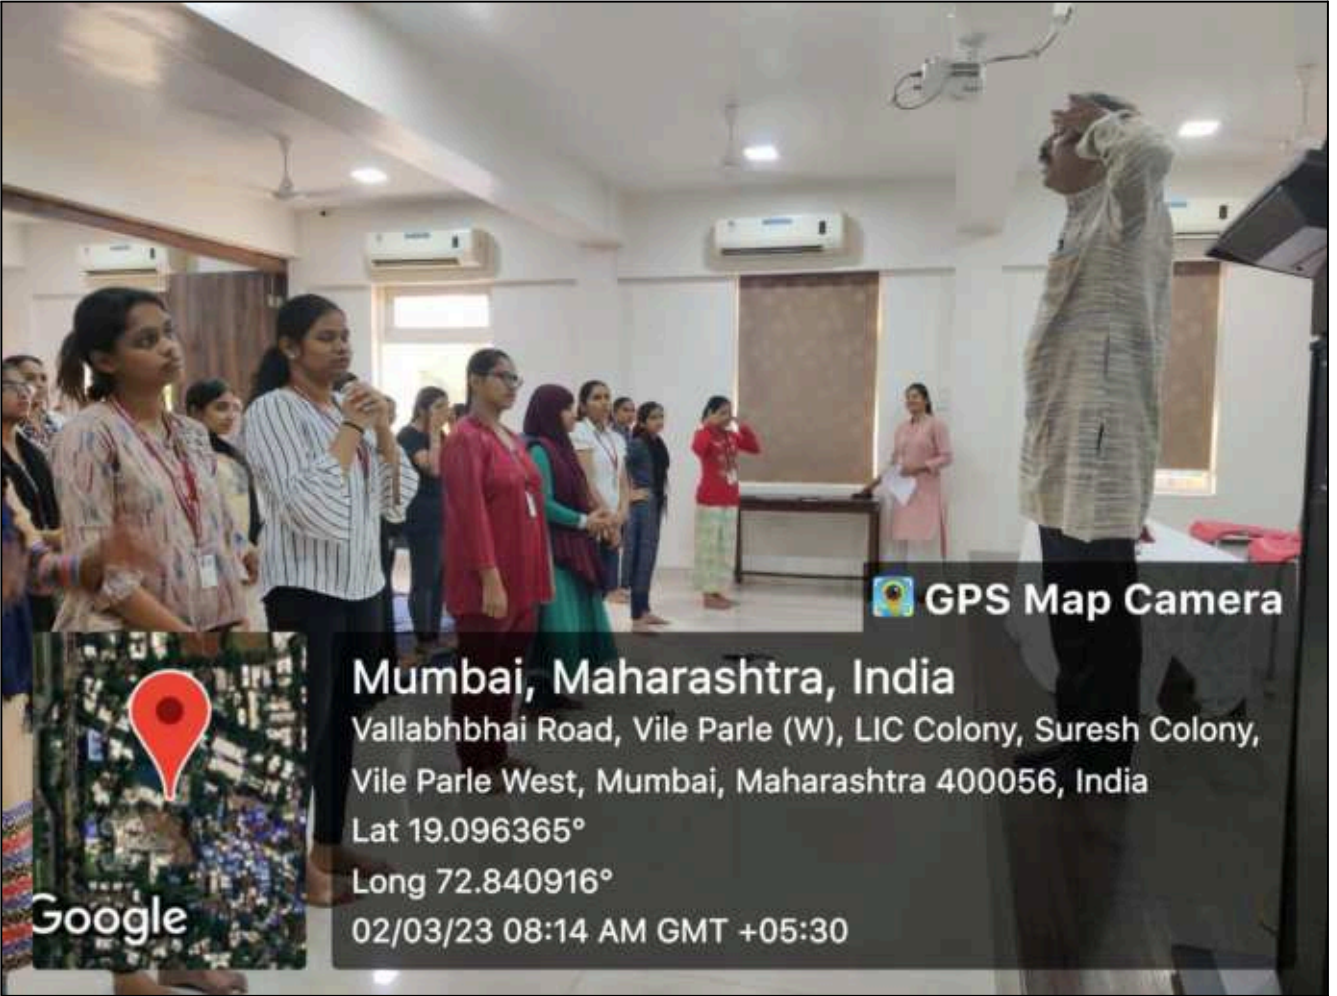

OVERVIEW: The Sports Committee members from Maniben Nanavati Women's College had organised a Yoga and Stress Management Session for all the first year students from all streams respectively. The session was conducted every Thursday and Saturday for one hour. Certified yoga trainers were appointed to conduct these sessions. The sessions began with Sir Narang and Ms. Seema by introducing theoretical information regarding the significance of yoga. The students were further encouraged to participate in the yoga exercises and activities including meditation. Yoga as a fact can help reduce stress because it promotes relaxation. Yoga exercises have three aspects of benefits for ourselves that are often affected by stress: our body, mind, and breathing. The purpose of yoga is to create harmony in the physical, vital, mental, psychological and spiritual aspects of the human being. The respective yoga trainers taught many types of yoga asanas and remedies to overcome stress. For eg asanas like Vrikshasana, Trikonasana and many more. At the end of the sessions the students understood the importance of yoga and how one can live a balanced life in harmony.

OUTCOME : The students were enriched with learning the various types of yogas. As yoga alters stress response and a person's attitude towards stress along with improving self confidence, increasing one's sense of well being, and creating a feeling of relaxation and calmness. By practicing yoga, one encourages a sense of body positivity. This thereby encourages a whole other level of confidence among the students who practice yoga. This instilling of confidence also helps in reducing situations of conflict among peers, as one gains confidence in their inner self.

Furthermore by 3.30 each group's puppets were prepared. They were asked to prepare stories using them. For their better understanding the team of teachers demonstrated an act of puppets. Children enjoyed the act with their laughter and cheers. The children performed their stories in groups although for the first try it was very good, but improvement is required.

The workshop came to an end with the comments of teachers on students' performances.

OBJECTIVES: To impart knowledge about the forms of poetry. To encourage students to write their own creative poetry.

OVERVIEW: On 16th February 2023, the Department of English organized a 'Creative Writing Workshop'. The speaker of this interactive session was introduced by Ms. Maryam Shareef. She is an author, poet, and screenwriter Mrs Rochelle Potkar, who enlightened us on some Japanese forms of poetry, including Haiku, Haibun, and Freeverse. Mrs Potkar began the workshop by introducing the difference between the Haiku and the Haibun. The students were asked to read poems by renowned poets and were encouraged to share their thoughts on the same. The speaker provided numerous examples for each type of poetry, which the students clarified the differences and craft complex poems of their own. The students could visualize the imagery in the poems and have a critical explanation for it. While writing the poetry, they had the opportunity to incorporate their thoughts and ideas in a nuanced manner. The audience enjoyed the students' stage performances of their own innovative poetry. The workshop ended with a vote of thanks given by Ms. Jennifer Almeida.

OUTCOME: The students were thrilled and excited to learn different forms of poetry. They loved this culminating session as they could create their own poetry and were able to express their own thoughts through words. The students made their own masterpieces of words. When the speaker appreciated them, it gave them confidence to write more such creative pieces in the future.

VENUE: Class 2.3

OBJECTIVES: To provide detailed knowledge on Integrated marketing communication

METHODOLOGY: Participatory

OVERVIEW: The lecture commenced at 12:39 pm by Ms Snehal Obhan who gave welcome address and introduced the speaker of the lecture Mr Satyam Tripathi, The speaker gave a brief overview of the session's topic, integrated marketing communication (IMC), as well as how it can aid in the development of a marketing style such that everything is process-oriented and provides a step-by-step framework for all marketing activities. He also described IMC as a crucial component of marketing communication and business, using an illustration to help the audience understand the steps that go into formulating a business strategy (IMC).

He discussed the IMC objectives, with examples The objectives are to understand the consumer behavior, communication process and communication mix. To make the method of an effective IMC easier to understand, he gave an example of an advertisement for the well-known brand Amul. The speaker claimed that IMC is important because it helps you determine your target audience. He described marketing as an exchange of relationships in which the company must maintain positive relationships with the customer and he will aid in marketing the product.

He uses the purchase of a particular product, such as Amul, as an example to illustrate the concept of channels. He claims that customers base their purchasing decisions on their prior purchasing experiences, therefore the majority of the time, 50 percent of marketing is carried out by the customer. He also mentioned the marketing communication tools, which include advertising, direct marketing promotion, personal selling, sponsorship, public relations, field marketing, and insight sales. According to his experience, field marketing is difficult because a person must convince customers to buy the product in one go, as one small change could make the crowd either pro or anti-product.

Product pricing, place, and promotion play a vital part in marketing communication. When you get to the business level, there are seven pieces total, four of which are related to marketing; the other three are related to people. Physical proof and procedure are used to explain each and every word of peace and their significance for the IMC. Additionally, he provided a succinct overview of CRM, or customer relationship management, and why it is crucial for IMC.

The session concluded with a question-and-answer session aimed at clearing up any remaining doubts. A student raised the CRM case, asking how to handle the situation where a customer likes the product and uses it but is still not satisfied. ACTIVITY REPORT

NAME OF THE ACTIVITY: GUEST LECTURE - LEARNING DISABILITY -Types, Challenges and Concessions available in Education

DD/MM/YY: 12/09/22

TARGET GROUP: 24 TYBA students of Department of Child Development, Maniben Nanavati Women's College

NAME OF FACULTY: Dr. Swati Partani, Head of Department, Department of Child Development

NO OF STUDENTS: 24

SPEAKER/RESOURCE PERSON (WITH DESIGNATION): Ms. Poonam D. Shah, Counselling Psychologist and Remedial Educator at Mehak Testing and Counselling Centre, Course trainer at Bhanuben Nanavati Career Development Centre.

VENUE: Maniben Nanavati Women's College
TIME: 8:25 AM - 10:00 AM

OBJECTIVES:

1. To raise awareness on Learning Disability
2. To provide better knowledge about the types, identifying factors and causes of learning disabilities.
3. To understand how children with learning disabilities can be supported in the modern education system.
4. To encourage students' own insights and ideas for creating an inclusive educational environment.

METHODOLOGY: Two methods followed in this activity were Experiential and Participative.

The students were required not only to listen to the experienced resource person but also had to engage in discussion with her.

OVERVIEW:

The session began with an introduction and welcome to Ms. Poonam Shah by Dr. Swati Partani. Then Ms. Shah began by asking the students what they understood about learning disabilities. Then with the help of a presentation, she provided a salient and comprehensive explanation about how learning disabilities look from the perspective of a child with the same, as well as numerous helpful facts to supplement the students' knowledge.

The causes behind learning disabilities were explained and the different types of learning disabilities were introduced. The types presented to the students included : Dysgraphia, Dyslexia, Dyspraxia, and Dyscalculia. This explanation of types involved a lot of interaction of the students with the resource person.

Then, Ms. Shah provided some ways to begin identification of a child with learning disability right from the preschool age, then soon followed it with concessions and provisions that are provided to the children with learning disabilities. She explained how important the term 'learning disability' was in bringing about reforms in perception and treatment of those who have learning disabilities and even introduced some famous personalities with learning disabilities.

At 9:50 AM Ms. Poonam Shah presented an animated video to the students in which a young girl beautifully summarised learning disabilities in children. After this, a short Question and Answer session was held, followed by a Vote of Thanks by Ms. Sharvi Agarkar. Ms. Poonam Shah also made the students aware of the course available at BNCDC for working with children with Learning Disabilities and encouraged them to join.

OUTCOME:

The students were able to gain a greater insight into what learning disabilities truly mean, how they manifest in young children, what causes them, how they can be identified and what role can adults play in supporting the child to gain better and higher levels of education according to their needs. A crucial theme that outlined the session was 'Early Intervention is better than later Remediation' and for the same, the unique listening, speaking and motor skills as well as behavioural patterns of children with learning disabilities right from the preschool age were explained to help better identify them. The current state of testing for learning disabilities is dismal, and hence, the students were encouraged to work for these children, becoming better acquainted with how to intervene and support them. The causes behind the development of difficulties in learning were many, ranging from medical problems to socio-cultural environment. How the word 'learning disability' enabled the children to receive the help that they needed, and changed the perception of it being a medical issue ('strophosymbolia') to a manageable characteristic of the child in terms of language, reading and information processing was conveyed.

Through understanding what the different types of learning disabilities are, the students were also able to understand what learning disabilities are not i.e., learning disabilities are a neurobiological issue, often with comorbid symptoms and not laziness or failure on part of the child, they are something that must be adequately dealt with throughout the life of the individual. The child must be supported from a young age, if identified in preschool, tackling the shift in teaching and learning from preschool to primary will become easier for them and even make them aware of their needs, raise their self-confidence and allow them to pursue higher education, never limiting their opportunities. The need for multisensory training and individualised education in children with learning disabilities was well understood. The cycle of high expectation from students with a loaded curriculum and ever-growing competition followed by the efforts of the adults in pushing the child to do their best was understood, how damaging it can be to a child and especially one with learning disabilities was clearly seen. There is an urgent need to work for these children as well as raise awareness about the provisions and concessions available to the parents, ensuring that their child is not wrong or less intelligent, but just requires support to help their capacities to emerge adequately.
