COURSE OUTCOME- PROGRAMME OUTCOME MAPPING & ATTAINMENT

CO-PO Mapping refers to the alignment and correlation between Course Outcomes (COs) and Program Outcomes (POs). This mapping ensures that each course within a curriculum contributes to the overarching goals of the program.

Mapping Process:

Alignment: Each CO is mapped to relevant POs that it supports. This mapping typically uses a scoring matrix, often on a scale (1, 2, 3), where:

- 1 - Low: CO slightly contributes to the PO.
- 2 - Moderate: CO moderately contributes to the PO.
- 3 - High: CO strongly contributes to the PO.

At our institute we follow the summative approach i.e combining the internal and external evaluation marks obtained. Students' composite scores from each course at the end of each semester were taken into account in the achievement process. The faculty members who teach the course and determine the CO-PO alignment levels in the following table

CO/PO	PO1	PO2	PO3	PO4	PO5
CO1	-	-	-	-	-
CO2	-	-	-	-	-
CO3	-	-	-	-	-

Each student's grades for each course were evaluated using a three-point rating system out of 100. A rating of three was given to a score of 60 or higher, which was regarded as above average performance. A rating of two was given to a performance score between 50 and 59, which was deemed average. A score of 49 or lower as given a rating of 1 because it was deemed below ordinary. Each student was evaluated in this manner on each course they completed as part of their individual programs, and their cumulative grades were combined to determine the score for each and every course's course achievement. These test results for course achievement were extended to the mapping sheets to compile the matrix of CO-PO achievement.
